Security Chimneys, Aqua-Tech Agree to Strategic Sales and Marketing Partnership

DETROIT, Mich., March 21, 2018 – With customer support being focus, Security Chimneys and Aqua-Tech Sales and Marketing, Inc., today announced a strategic sales and marketing partnership in the greater Toronto, Ontario area. Established in 1980, Aqua-Tech Sales is a manufacturer's representative distributing hot water heaters, hot water boiler systems, and components for residential, commercial, industrial and institutional applications.

"Security Chimneys believes that quality relationships help develop quality products, and we have developed valuable partnerships by providing superior sales support, customer service and product," said Don McInroy, national sales manager of Canadian commercial venting and OEM sales for DuraVent and Security Chimneys. "This partnership with Aqua-Tech further strengthens our commitment to customer service and aftersales technical support."

Security Chimneys' expanding product lineup includes a variety of industrial-strength chimneys, all designed for Category I, II, III, and IV heating boilers, domestic water boilers, and low- to high-temperature hydronic heating applications.

"Aqua-Tech Sales has built a solid foundation over the past 37 years offering our clientele effective technical solutions with added value. Our people are capable of meeting customer market needs from engineering and contractor support to customer service and account administration," said Darryl Singleton, vice president at Aqua-Tech Sales. "We look forward to our partnership with Security Chimneys which will make both of our companies stronger."

About Security Chimneys

For more than 50 years, Security Chimneys® has built a reputation as one of the most trusted suppliers of quality chimneys in North America. Our dedication to total quality lives in the research and development of new products and services for the residential and commercial markets.

Throughout our history, our product offerings have evolved. We've strengthened our focus on maintaining our leadership position in the industry by designing, building and marketing a complete line of chimneys for residential and commercial applications that have set the standard that other manufacturers have often imitated, but never equaled.
